Money Spent for Education.
The truth of the charge made by Relicans that the Democrats had increased the expenses of the State government was freely admitted by Mr. Flood. "We did it." he said, "because we had it to spend. We have reduced taxes and doubled our revenues under Democratic rule, and have expended it for the upbuilding of the State and her people. We have built high schools with some of it.

Comparison of Pensions.

The Legislature in which the Republicans were in control, asserted the speaker, spent $247 for pensions for Confederate soldiers. The Democrats last year expended nearly half a mil-

To Build New Sheds.

It seems very likely that the property of the Virginia Railway and Power Company, on Seinmes Avenue, now occupied by the car barns for Manchester and Petersburg, will soon befor sale. The company expects to build permanent sheds on the property on Seventh Street, recently purchased. A more pretentious passenger station will take the place of the building across Perry Street, now used for that purpose.

EXPLAINS BANK BILL

Mr. Bryan Shows How Measure Will Result in Good.

Salient features of the proposed act to create a State bureau of banking were discussed last night before the Richmond Chapter of the American Institute of Banking by George Bryan, of the local bar, who has been interested in drawing up the bill.

Mr. Bryan explained many of the sections and spoke of the advantages which will result from the passage of the act. The function of the State bank commissioner he set forth in detail as well as the reasons for the many changes in the present state of the State.

He declared that much good will result from the act, and that he felt sure the bill in its present form or some form much similar to it would be enacted at the coming session of the Legislature.

MAY BE SHUT OUT

Merchants Who Leave Front Doors Open Must Apply to Police in Morning.

From the fact that many merchants now and then leave their stores and forget to lock them overnight, the Police Department has purchased a number of strong locks, which will be used whenever a door is reported open. The officers are required to test every entrance to houses in the business districts, and often, late at night, the proprietors are called from home. Each lock is marked "Police Department," and the man who finds himself locked out of his own store with have to appeal to the Chief of Police before he can get in.

William Massey, alias William Jones, was required to give $100 security for his good behavior for sixty days in Folice Court yesterday. Massey, or Jones, is alleged to have entered the home of B. CREDIT MEN'S ASSOCIATION TO HOLD MEETING OCTOBER 26

At the next quarterly meeting of the Credit Men's Association of Richmend on October 26 a report will be presented from the adjustment bureau, a branch of the association. This report is awaite, with interest, as it will show the result of the experiment of attempting to conserve the assets of embarrassed concerns, and to build up instead of destroy firms which are weak financially. It is intended by means of this bureau to do away with a large part of the court costs and attorney's fees incident upon closing up a business.

The meeting will be an important one, and a full attendance is expected. It will be held at the Business Men's Club.
